

Nether Loirston Growers

Despite earlier drought and following monsoon conditions along with some chilly days, everything is coming along nicely up at the Allotments.

Lovely new potatoes are being harvested and a little bit of fresh mint in the water when boiling makes them extra tasty. There has been a good crop of strawberries and the blackcurrant and gooseberry bushes are laden again this year. The salad crops are doing well and the tomato plants in the polytunnel are shaping up to provide more mouthwatering treats. Everything tastes so much better when home-grown!

We had a visit from renowned Photographer Martin Parr who has been commissioned by the Art Gallery to chronicle various events and pursuits in the City over the year. Below is Martin (centre) with some of our Allotmentees. Martin's work includes the short clips on BBC just now with the Bog Snorkelers, tandem riders, potholers, canoeists etc.

We are gearing up for the forthcoming judging of our Allotments in the Its Your Neighbourhood Awards and as part of Cove in Bloom and Aberdeen City Council's entries in the Beautiful Scotland Awards.
