Since the last issue, there have been a number of random motor vehicles vandalised in Kincorth during the hours of darkness and it remains unclear at this stage if these crimes are linked. Operation Gadoid has been organised specifically to deal with this issue and will take place during the forthcoming weeks. This will involve high visibility and plain clothes patrols in the area to catch those responsible and prevent further incidents from occurring.

We have also received reports of inappropriate parking in Loirston Avenue around the school and shops. The City Wardens are now covering the affected areas during their patrols and several vehicles have been moved on. If you need to visit this area, please consider the safety of others and park responsibly. This will also prevent congestion and the possibility of a Fine. This is a recurring and sporadic problem which will be monitored continuously.

Complaints concerning Speeding is something which pops up in our area from time to time. In an effort to improve my team's self-sufficiency, I have arranged for Roads Policing to provide additional training of Speed Measurement Equipment to local officers. We will also continue to work closely with NESCAMP who are based at the Nigg Police Office to deal with reports as they come in and also through well publicised, pre-planned operations.

As mentioned in the last issue, we have had significant success in catching the persons responsible for the housebreakings in Kincorth and the industrial estates at the end of last year. Unfortunately these crimes do still occur occasionally and the newly formed Housebreaking Squad based at Police Headquarters, Queen Street, has been instigated by Police Scotland to proactively target those involved in acquisitive crime. The Nigg Community Policing Team works closely with this unit to share local knowledge and maintain our high detection rate.

The Police Scotland website includes excellent crime prevention advice, giving property owners invaluable guidance on how to make things harder for criminals. If we all follow simple security measures, together we can stop opportunistic thieves from operating in our community.

As always, please get in touch with one of the local officers based at Nigg Police Office if you are looking for advice or would like to report an incident
