As the dark nights are setting in, we would like to take the opportunity to remind the community to do what they can to stay safe and to take steps to prevent crime where possible. It is often under the apparent cover of darkness that thieves will commit most of their crimes and regularly people can fall victim to this as the winter nights approach due to the longer night time hours. Please try to leave your lights switched on inside your property when it is unoccupied, and ask a neighbour or family member to look after your property if you are away for longer periods of time; such as on holiday. A timer switch can also be an ideal device to give the impression of someone being at home by switching on electrical items throughout the night, such as lamps or televisions.

Please always keep doors locked, even throughout the day as this is a good habit to be in and where possible keep your house and car keys out of sight of windows and doors. We encourage reports of any suspicious persons or vehicles seen in your area, and if there is anything that you are not sure about then please report this to the Police so we can deal with it appropriately. If you would like more Crime Prevention advice, please contact a local officer.

Police Scotland would also like to announce the arrival of a new Inspector to the Cove area. Jamie Wilson joins the team from an experienced background in various aspects of Policing and commences work in the Cove and surrounding areas this month. Inspector Wilson is very focussed on the community and looks forward to meeting the residents of Cove at any opportunity in the near future. This is another welcome addition to our current team of officers in the local Cove area.

If you have any questions or concerns, please get in touch with one of your local officers. Constables Jake Woo, John Fiddes, and Keri Dunn.
